TWENTY-SECOND YEAR

GETTYSBURG, WEDNESDAY, JULY 16th, 1924.

PRICE TWO CENTS

COMMISSIONERS PLAN INCREASE OF INDEBTEDNESS

Because Of Lack Of Funds And Steady
Growth Of Bonded
Indebtedness, 2 To 10 Per Cent Increase Is Contemplated.

With the greater part of their borrowing capacity used up and facing a deficit in their yearly budget, the Adams county commissioners are understood to be contemplating raising the bonded indebtedness of the county from 2 to 10 per cent of the assessed valuation of real estate.

In order to increase the bonded indebtedness, the commissioners find themselves confronted with the necessity of placing the matter before the voters at a general election. On their own authority the commissioners may borrow an amount equal to 2 per cent of the taxable real estate in the county, but to increase the amount of the bonded indebtedness above 2 per cent it is first necessary to have a majority vote of the county's voters.

Face Shortage
Positive information that the commissioners have fully decided to go ahead and place the matter of increased bonded indebtedness before the voters has not been forthcoming from the office of the board, but it is understood that at each succeeding weekly meeting of the commissioners the question of funds becomes more and more acute. Some discussion as to the advisability of going before the voters in November asking for favorable action on an increase of the bonded indebtedness of the county has already been held by the commissioners and looms as a possibility.

Taxable real estate in Adams county according to the 1924 tax returns amounts to $15,159,218. Under the existing law the commissioners may borrow 2 per cent of this amount, or slightly more than $300,000. The present bonded indebtedness of the county, assumed by the present board of commissioners from the outgoing board at the first of the year, amounts to $265,000. This amount, however, was not incurred by the last board of commissioners, but represents a steady growth of expenditures for roads, bridges, improvements to the court house and other permanent improvements.

$20,000 In Sinking Fund
From the total of the present bonded indebtedness must be taken the sum of approximately $20,000 now in the sinking fund for the retirement of outstanding bonds, it is explained, making the county's total bonded indebtedness somewhere in the neighborhood of $245,000.

But the commissioners are assuming new responsibilities which will boost the county's bonded indebtedness to within a very dangerous proximity of the 2 per cent limit fixed by law. GETTYSBURG GIRL SECRETLY WEDDED Surprising parents and friends, to whom she gave no intimation of her intentions, Miss Dorothy A. Weaver, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William F. Weaver, West Middle street, was married in Harrisburg on Monday to James D. Laird, son of Dr. Laird, Philadelphia.

Although Miss Weaver's parents knew that she was acquainted with Mr. Laird and had been corresponding with him since she graduated from Beckley Business College, Harrisburg, in 1922, they were given no inkling that the two were planning to be married.

Miss Weaver, in company with a number of friends from Gettysburg, left here two weeks ago to spend several weeks in Atlantic City. It was understood that while at the seashore Miss Weaver met Mr. Laird and the two came to Harrisburg and were married.

Mr. and Mrs. Laird have informed the latter's parents here that they are spending a honeymoon of a week or ten days in Atlantic City.

The bride attended St. Francis Xavier school here, St. Joseph's school for girls, McSherrytown, and Beckley Business College, Harrisburg. Since graduating from the Harrisburg school, the bride was employed as clerk in the office of the E. F. Strausbaugh planing mill, Carlisle street.

YANKEE FLIERS REACH ENGLAND

(By Associated Press.)
Croyden, Eng., July 16.—The American aviators on their flight around the world landed here at 2:08 this afternoon.
The three machines taxied easily into the Croyden airdrome after an uneventful flight across the channel from Paris. Lieut. L. H. Smith, the flight commander, was the first to land, and one of the first to greet the American airmen was Mrs. Stewart McLaren, wife of the British world flyer, who asked for news of her husband who is now in the Far East.

C. E. DELEGATES HOME FROM MEET

Adams County Delegation Returns From Biennial Convention of Christian Endeavor.

Adams county's delegates to the eleventh biennial convention of the Pennsylvania State Christian Endeavor society have returned home, most of them arriving on Saturday, while the remainder returned Tuesday evening.

Those who returned Tuesday evening, J. Harold Mumper, Miss Vestal Stallsmith, Miss Edith Clare, Miss Miriam Hartzell and Mrs. William Wentz spent the week-end at the home of the Rev. Dr. J. B. Baker and family at Indiana, this state.

The Pittsburgh convention, at which 13,300 delegates from all parts of the state were registered, was declared to have been enjoyable and profitable. One of the features of the convention was the address of Curtis D. Wilbur, Secretary of the Navy.

Other Christian Endeavor workers from the county who attended the sessions were:

Miss Lou Etta Sharetts, president of the county C. E.; Paul Reaser, Charles Rogers, Gettysburg; Miss Katherine Durborow, Barlow; Charles Eisenhart, Miss Ruth Eisenhart, Miss Frances Slothour, Miss Mary Reynolds, Miss Naomi Stambaugh, Miss Bertha Lau, Miss Isabelle Grove, Miss Esther Reynolds, Robert Lau, Verne Brandt, Earl Baker, Richard Reynolds, Miss Beulah Wentz, Miss Grace Grove, Mr. and Mrs. Irvin Wiley, Dewey Spangler, and Mr. Spangler, all of East Berlin.

WOMAN REGAINS SEIZED MACHINE

Mrs. Maria P. Perna, of Philadelphia, whose automobile was seized by the state police when it was found to be carrying contraband liquor, will regain possession of her car as a result of an opinion handed down by Judge D. P. McPherson.

Judge McPherson ruled, in effect, that the machine could not be confiscated and sold for the use of Adams county because the liquor on board was being transported without her knowledge or consent.

Mrs. Perna was not in the car at the time the state police stopped it on Buford avenue. The chauffeur was arrested and later drew a sentence from the court. William Hersh, Esq., represented Mrs. Perna in her action for the recovery of her automobile.

County Fair To Be Held September 23, 24

Adams county's largest fair, the South Mountain Community Fair, will be held at Arendtsville Union Park on September 23 and 24. Dates of other fairs in nearby counties are: Taneytown, Carroll County Fair, September 16 to 19; Hanover, Hanover Agricultural Society Fair, September 23 to 26; York, York County Agricultural Society Fair, October 7 to 10, and Frederick Fair, October 21 to 24.

PURCHASES LARGE TRACT

H. U. Walter, postmaster at Biglerville, this morning announced the purchase of between four and five acres of land on the west side of South Main street, Biglerville, from Amos Sillick. The purchase price was not made public. The land fronts 1,007 feet on South Main street and Mr. Walter expects to lay most of it out into building lots.

CHAMBER WINDS UP DRIVE WORK

Directors Membership Committee Meets Tonight To Complete Finishing Touches For Campaign.

DRIVE ENDS FRIDAY

The finishing touches will be placed on the follow-up campaign for members in the Gettysburg Chamber of Commerce at a meeting of the directors membership committee at the Hotel Gettysburg this evening at 7:30. This committee comprises W. A. Miller, P. W. Stallsmith and N. B. Schnurman.

The original prospect list will be revised, eliminating those who signed up for membership in the first three days of the campaign. The remaining list will comprise names of people who the directors feel are "sure-fire" prospects and "who ought to be actively identified with the reorganized Chamber of Commerce."

This list will be proportioned among the active workers in the drive and during Thursday and Friday these workers will again canvass the town and endeavor to see and sign up every person whose name appears on the prospect list.

Report Thursday Morning

All persons whose names were entered on the original list of workers, under the various team captains, are requested by the committee to report promptly at 9 o'clock Thursday morning at Hotel Gettysburg and be prepared to devote as big a part of Thursday and Friday as possible to signing up the prospects.

The work in the follow-up campaign ought to be comparatively easy, officers of the local Chamber, who have given a large amount of their time and effort to make the campaign a success, said today.

"We feel that the business people as a whole have been educated to the wonderful possibilities for general advancement of business interests and public welfare through a thoroughly alive and alert full time Chamber of Commerce organization, the workers ought to have little or no difficulty in getting all they interview to sign up," is the way one summarized it.

Need Man-Power

"We cannot hope to accomplish anything without man-power, general interest and money and it certainly is not fair to ask a few to carry the burden for the whole community. General interest of the business people is to be desired more than their money, but the money is also necessary to accomplish anything. The membership dues of $25 a year are a hardship on no one, proportioned for payment over the year at the option of the member, as they are. On the other hand, if a few are expected to meet the entire expense of the Chamber of Commerce program, then it does become a hardship on those few."

With nearly 200 members already signed up, the success of the campaign is virtually assured, this leader pointed out. As soon as the canvass is completed Thursday and Friday, arrangements will be made for a re-organization meeting when the new members will meet to elect directors. Officers will also be elected.

WALTZ PRIZE WON BY YORK COUPLE

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Butt, of York, visiting in Gettysburg, won the $5 bill given to the couple for the best exhibition of the old fashioned waltz at the third block dance of the season held Tuesday evening in front of the High School building on York street.

Only ten couples participated in the old fashioned waltz contest and all but four of them were eliminated in the first few minutes of the competition. Three Gettysburg couples and the York couple then gave an exhibition of the old fashioned waltz, the judges finally deciding upon Mr. and Mrs. Butt as the winners.

The Legion's third dance was largely attended and drew hundreds of spectators who watched the dancers during the evening. Bobby's Serenaders furnished music for the dancing.

GROCER IS MURDERED

(By Associated Press.)
Pittsburgh, July 16.—Frank Rissi, owner of a grocery store in a suburb, was found murdered in his home here today. He was struck on the head with a hand billy. The murderer escaped.

APPLER HOME SOLD

Announcement was made this morning of the sale of the Appler home, 26 East High street, to Mr. and Mrs. William A. Bigham.

French Nobleman Seeks Annulment

DUCHESS DE TALLEYRAND
& COUNT DE CASTELLANE

After pleading for years, Count Boni de Castellane is reported to have finally succeeded in securing the annulment of his marriage from the former Anna Gould, from the Vatican. The Vatican, however, denies the report of the annulment, stating that the special commission of three Cardinals has the case under advisement and the findings will be announced later.

GETTYSBURG MAN DIES EARLY TODAY

After a lingering illness of several weeks' duration, death early this morning claimed Charles B. Strausbaugh, 67 years, pioneer resident of Adams county, who for the past several months has been residing with his son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Rider, in East Berlin. Death took place at the latter home at 12:30 o'clock this morning.

The body was removed to the H. B. Bender and Son undertaking parlors and later removed to the home of the deceased's daughter, Mrs. Robert Bollinger, of Gettysburg.

Mr. Strausbaugh was born in Emmitsburg, Maryland, and at an early age removed to Adams county where he located at Greenmount. Later he removed to Gettysburg and resided at 204 West High street, where he had resided until last March when he made his home with his daughter in East Berlin.

He is survived by his wife, Mrs. Jennie Strausbaugh, two daughters, Mrs. J. M. Rider, of East Berlin; Mrs. Robert Bollinger, of Gettysburg, and one son, Jerry D. Strausbaugh, of Waynesboro.

Funeral services will be held Friday afternoon at 2 o'clock from the Bollinger home and interment will take place at Evergreen cemetery.

START POURING CONCRETE ON ROAD

The Union Construction Company, Lancaster, engaged in building the Bonneville road through Mt. Pleasant township, poured the first concrete on Tuesday at the eastern boundary of the township. The roadway will be 16 feet wide and when completed will furnish a solid road between Gettysburg and Hanover.

The contractors hope to have the entire stretch under construction completed before cold weather sets in next fall. Twenty-one days are allowed to elapse from the time the concrete is poured before the road is thrown open to traffic.

The Union Construction Company took over the apparatus of the Souder Construction Company for this particular piece of work.

HOSPITAL REPORT

Mrs. Matilda Baker, Orrtanna, was admitted as a patient to the Warner Hospital.

Patients discharged include Mrs. Harry Keefe, Gettysburg R. 3; Mrs. Maurice Steiner and infant son, Chambersburg street; Jacqueline Parsons, Flora Dale; Elizabeth Keller, Gettysburg R. 7, and Caroline Burns, Union Mills.

REVENUE STAMP SALES CONTINUE

Although Notes Are Now Free From Tax, Institutions Will Handle Supply.

IS AN ACCOMMODATION

Banks of Gettysburg and Adams county will continue the sale of federal revenue stamps as an accommodation to patrons as long as the present supply lasts, and indefinitely if there is a demand for the stamps, even though under the tax revision bill passed by the last congress nearly all negotiable papers handled generally by banking institutions are exempt from taxation.

This information was obtained through inquiry of half a dozen banks in town and county. The new tax revision measure became effective as law at midnight July 2, on all promissory notes, judgment notes and time drafts. Banks have been selling revenue stamps as a matter of convenience. The new measure does not exempt from taxation deeds and mortgage bonds which continue to require the stamps. To take care of the demand for stamps on these papers, the banks will continue to sell them, it is stated.

Sheriff Dispute To Be Listed September

Charles S. Duncan, Esq., attorney for G. D. Morrison, Straban township, contender for the position of sheriff on the strength of the illegality of the so-called absent voters law, announced this afternoon that he would list for argument before Judge D. P. McPherson on September 15 the case of his client against Sheriff John C. Shealer, incumbent, whose election was swung by votes cast by mail.

Motion to quash the proceedings was already made by J. Donald Swope, Esq., attorney for Shealer, at a previous hearing on the ground that the action of Morrison was not properly brought.

In the meanwhile, Shealer will continue to act as sheriff, although the State supreme court last week handed down an opinion in which it declared illegal voting by mail.

WENTZ GROCERY STORE IS SOLD

Harry Wentz, proprietor of Wentz's Grocery store, York street, announced the sale of the store, fixtures and good will to Paul Shealer, East Middle street. The transfer became effective today.

Mr. Wentz, who conducted the business for the past five years, has made application to the State Public Service Commission for a certificate to public convenience to operate a passenger bus line between Gettysburg and Hanover by way of the Bonneville road.

Farmers Make Hay While Moon Shines

A Gettysburg business man, returning from York by automobile Tuesday night between 9 and 10 o'clock, noticed farmers at work in three fields gathering their hay.

The farmers are taking advantage of the unusually bright moon light to make up for the time they lost in gathering their crops through the inclement weather.

Farmers in other parts of the county are also making hay by moon light and are turning in late and getting out early these nights, according to information received by The Times.

Dr. E. M. Baxter To Speak On Thursday

Dr. E. M. Baxter will deliver an illustrated lecture Thursday evening in Brua Chapel, under the auspices of the Gettysburg College summer school. The announcement of Dr. Baxter's lecture was made this morning by Dr. Charles F. Sanders. The lecture on "South America" will open at eight o'clock, and will be illustrated by stereoscopic slides. No admission will be charged, and the public is cordially invited.

POLICE SEEK BOY AND MISSING CAR

Biglerville Postmaster Has Machine Stolen From Garage, While Negro Boy, Befriended, Disappears.

Mr. Tyson's car was recovered late this afternoon by Baltimore officials and will be returned to its owner in Biglerville.

Confidence apparently misplaced by Harry U. Walter, postmaster at Biglerville, resulted in the theft this morning of a touring car owned by Edwin C. Tyson, Flora Dale, from the Blaine G. Walter garage, in Biglerville.

Two weeks ago, Mr. Walter made a trip to York, which fact was duly chronicled by the York and other papers after he had a "run in" with part of York's traffic police force.

On the way to York, Mr. Walter was asked by a farmer to give a young colored boy a lift to York, which he gladly consented to. The Biglerville man spent the night in York and also put up the boy at a colored hotel.

Stays In Garage
The young colored man accompanied Mr. Walter back to Biglerville, when the latter learned that he was familiar with automobiles. For the past ten days, the boy had been staying at the Walter garage in Biglerville, which is operated by the postmaster's son, Blaine.

The latter, however, was out of town for several days and early this morning the father opened up the garage at 4:30 o'clock and found everything O. K.

At 5:45 Mr. Walter went to the post office to dispatch the first mail of the day and upon returning to the garage at 6 he found the touring car of Mr. Tyson gone and the colored boy missing.

Police Notified
The car had been left at the garage for minor repairs. Mr. Tyson and Mr. Walter came to Gettysburg later in the forenoon and notified the local substation of the State Highway Motor Patrol of the theft.

Suspected Payroll Thief Fatally Shot

(By Associated Press.)
Rock Springs, Wyo., July 16.—Clyde N. Fisher, cashier of a coal company here who disappeared yesterday at the same time that the company's payroll vanished, was shot and fatally wounded today by John Walter, mine foreman and friend of Fisher.

Fisher was making for a cache of food, water and blankets in the mountains two miles from the coal camp where he had previously worked when he was shot. Six thousand dollars was found in Fisher's hiding place.

FALL ENTERS PLEA OF "NOT GUILTY"

El Paso, Tex., July 16.—Albert B. Fall, former secretary of the interior, yesterday pleaded not guilty, waived preliminary hearing and refused to make any comment when he was arraigned before United States Commissioner A. J. Schmid, on charges growing out of indictments returned by a special grand jury in the district of Columbia.

COOPERATION OF AMERICA URGED FOR DAWES PLAN

Interallied Reparations Conference Opens In London With Ramsay MacDonald Leading Figure With Herriot.

(By Associated Press.)

London, July 16.—American cooperation for putting the Dawes plan into effect to set Germany on her feet and stabilize the European economic situation was emphasized at the opening here today of the interallied reparations conference with England's Prime Minister, Ramsay MacDonald, and Edouard Herriot, head of the new French government, the leading figures.

Two U. S. Observers

At the conference table with the delegates sat two American representatives, Frank B. Kellogg, American ambassador to Great Britain, and Col. James A. Logan, American observer with the reparations commission.

Premier MacDonald, in his opening remarks, made special reference to the presence of the two Americans, who although not full delegates indicated by their presence, he said, the good will of the United States and its cooperation in an effort to make effective the Dawes plan.

Will Cooperate

Ambassador Kellogg, in reply, said the Americans were present in the same spirit of cooperation and helpfulness as the allied delegates, the government and the people believing that to make the Dawes plan effective would be the first notable step toward European stabilization.

BODY IS USED AS MURDER EVIDENCE

(By Associated Press.)

Atlantic City, July 16.—Trial of Mrs. Earl Willard and her former boarder, John Gillas, for the murder of her five-month-old daughter, Alice, was resumed in criminal court at May's Landing today with the defendants again forced to face the body of their alleged victim.

The sensational exhibit is officially known as S-11. It was introduced as evidence at the opening of the trial yesterday by the assistant prosecutor and will remain throughout the duration of the trial. It is the first time that a body has been exhibited as evidence in a murder trial in the New Jersey courts.

John M. Waddell, undertaker's assistant who testified yesterday of the embalming of the infant body, was recalled to the stand today and identified a sheet and baby nightgown as that he took from the body when it was brought to the undertaker's establishment.

FOUR ARE MISSING IN FOREST FIRES

(By Associated Press.)

San Francisco, July 16.—Eastern Washington, northern Idaho and California today were continuing their more or less unsuccessful battle against forest fires, but rain in western Washington and Oregon had nearly ended the fire menace there.

Fires in northern Idaho and northeastern Washington last night had burned over several thousand acres of timber land and had destroyed the surface working of four mines, a number of ranch houses and much property of lumber companies, including several hundred thousand feet of timber.

So far as known no lives have been lost although a number of persons have been injured and some livestock killed. Four persons are missing in British Columbia.

STOCK REPORT

(By Associated Press.)

New York, July 16.—Considerable irregularity developed at the opening of today's stock market. Reactionary movements temporarily set back the market by a fresh display of railroad strength. Persistent selling of Atlantic Refining forced that stock down more than four points. Just before noon the general list turned heavy again when active selling broke out in the steel group. Call money opened at 2 per cent.

STATE PLANTS 2000 LBS. OF TREE SEEDS IN SPRING

More than 2000 pounds of tree seed were sown in the State and institutional nurseries, during the spring months, officials of the Department of Forests and Waters announced last night.

This quantity of seed, the officials estimate, will produce more than 18,000,000 small trees, principally white pine, red pine, pitch pine, Scotch pine, Norway spruce and larch.

Of the total amount of seed, 1173 pounds were sown at State nurseries and the balance at institutional nurseries. The Mont Alto nursery planted 542 pounds; the nursery at Rockview Penitentiary 495 pounds; the Clearfield nursery 456 pounds; Huntingdon Reformatory 365 pounds, and Greenwood nursery, 172 pounds.

Siren Messages From Ships Anger Villagers

Fleetwood, Eng., July 16.—Tooting farewells to their women folk through the whistles of their steam trawlers by skippers as they leave dock in the early morning has so got on the nerves of townsfolk that representations have been made to the town council to have the nuisance stopped. As many as 25 trawlers sail at the same time, and among the whistled messages are "Love to the wife and kids," "Behave yourself while I am away," "We are going North" and "We shall be back Monday week." Some of the skippers pride themselves on being able to play "Cock o' the North" on the siren.

MAN CUT TO DEATH BY BINDER KNIVES

Ernest Breeze Dies Of Wounds Received When Thrown In- to Knives Of Binder.

Hagerstown, July 16.—Thrown on the knives of the binder guards when the horses he was driving became frightened and started to run away as he was leaving the field on his farm near Dargon Tuesday afternoon about 2 o'clock, Ernest Breeze, a farmer, was ground between the sharp points of the machinery and died about ten minutes after the accident, before help could be summoned.

Dr. W. C. Wheeler, of Boonsboro, who was called, said that internal hemorrhages had resulted from the wounds made by the sharp knives of the binder which had pierced the man's heart and lungs. He was dead when aid reached him. Herbert Hitzel, who had been harvesting with Breeze, was badly cut and bruised and required medical attention, but his wounds were not serious.

CASH BALANCE IS GIVEN TO FARMER

Survey Of Farms And Farm Conditions Indicates Unusual Success For Majority Of Farmers.

Washington, July 16.—A survey conducted by the Department of Agriculture shows that an average cash balance of $890 was returned to the owner-operator in 1923 on 16,183 farms surveyed. In addition to this margin of cash receipts over cash expenses, these farms increased inventories of crops, livestock, machinery and supplies $130 making an average return of $1,020 for the use of $17,490 of capital and the labor of the farmer and his family. These farms also produced food and fuel consumed on the farm estimated to be worth $250 on the average.

The Department reports this to be slightly better than the showing of a similar survey for 1922 on 6,004 owner-operator farms which averaged a cash balance of $715, increased inventory of $202, and produced food and fuel worth $294, on capital amounting to $16,410.

CHEAPER GASOLINE IN U. S. EXPECTED

New York, July 16.—Cheaper gasoline for the rest of the summer may be in prospect for motorists throughout the country, following an initial break in the east, which brought the price down one cent a gallon.

Aided by favorable conditions in the crude oil market, it is believed that local price wars in widely scattered sections may soon spread to somewhere near the proportions achieved by the gasoline "war" of last year which began when Governor McMaster, of South Dakota forced the price in his state down from 24 to 16 cents.

Today the principal oil companies announced a cut of 1 cent that went into effect in Pennsylvania, New York and New England. The way was led by the Standard Oil Company of New York.

AGENTS UNCOVER $400,000 IN DRUGS

New York, July 16.—Federal authorities last night considered libeling the Italia-Americana liner Duilio, after a $400,000 narcotics raid at her pier early yesterday and the arrest of nine of her crew.

Arthur Gaeta, ship's plumber, confessed he had smuggled in the contraband, authorities reported. Gaeta's arrest was alleged to have caused him to confess also that he had smuggled to this country, on a fruitless mission of salesmanship, a stolen Michael Angelo for the return of which the Italian government had offered $100,000 reward.

4 SLAYERS PAY DEATH PENALTY

Condemned Men Face Electric Chair With Smile; March Steadily And Do Not Falter On Way.

Trenton, N. J., July 16.—Four men who were convicted of murders in Camden and Gloucester counties paid the death penalty in the electric chair at the state prison last night. Not one wavered. They walked to the brink steady of tread and one of them with a smile.

The first to be strapped into the death chair was Anthony Bagdonowicz, who was convicted of the murder of William Bishop, Jr., Camden taxi driver, more than a year ago. The others were Tony Briglia, of Verga; Frank W. Taylor and his son-in-law, Edward Allen, of Gloucester City, all three of whom were convicted of the murder of Walter Crozier on his farm in Chapel Heights July 30 last year.

It was the first time that four men have been put to death in one night at the prison. The first was led into the death chamber at 8:15 o'clock and the last one was pronounced dead forty-one minutes later.

Bagdonowicz followed the Rev. Thomas Kirk and the Rev. Alfonso Palomli, prison chaplains, into the grim room at 8:15 o'clock. The number of witnesses was so great that they were divided into two groups, each group witnessing two electrocutions. As he walked slowly, but steadily into the chamber, the condemned man wore a smile.

Pausing beside the chair, he gazed upon it for a moment, then turned toward the witnesses.

"I want to say something," he said. For a brief time there was not a sound in the death room. Then he began slowly: "I have been in penal institutions fourteen out of twenty-four years. I am a Catholic. I want confession and communion again. I did not kill any one."

"You can never reform boys by beating them with clubs. I am dying with a smile. I will take it easy. Goodbye, everyone."

Mother Is Happy

While the Rev. Kirk was praying and the straps were being placed about the condemned prisoner's wrists he spoke again, very quietly: "My mother will be happy," he said. "She knows I have had confession and communion."

The fatal current was turned on at that point. Six minutes later he was pronounced dead by the prison physician, J. W. Crane.

Briglia was led to the chair by the same ministers at 8:27.

"I want to pray," he said, as his eyes fell upon the apparatus that in a moment was to take his life. He knelt with the Rev. Kirk and together they prayed.

"Don't press too hard," he said as the black cap was placed over his head. "Goodbye, all," where his last words. Five minutes later he was pronounced dead.

Systematically and with not a moment's reprieve, while the convicted murderers were paying the penalty, quietly the first group of witnesses filed out and their places were taken by the second group.

A youth grows bigger, but he does not change his nature when he changes his stature.

Plain dealings is the best when all is done.

NEW LAW GIVES INDIANS VOTE

Citizenship Act Provides Way For Indians To Cast Ballot In Coming Fall Elections.

Washington, July 16.—Provided the various states that embrace their reservations will set up the necessary machinery, thousands of Indians will become voters in the coming elections as a result of the Citizenship Act passed at the recent session of Congress.

With the passage of the law every native-born Indian in the United States automatically became a citizen, Commissioner Burke recently estimating the number at approximately 125,000. At least one-fourth of this number, it is calculated, are adults and therefore entitled to vote except in states where the election laws fix certain qualifications, such as educational, property ownership or payment of poll taxes, that the new Indian citizens may not be able to meet.

Minor Hindrance

However, this condition is believed by authorities on the subject to be only a minor hindrance to the newly enfranchised Indians going to the polls, the chief obstacle mentioned being the lack of organized machinery. Most of the Indians, it is pointed out, live on closed reservations located in unorganized counties where there are no officials to provide the necessary ballots, polling places and other election facilities.

Affects Others

Not only the Indians in the particular circumstances described are prevented from casting their votes, but even white citizens living on the reservations have no such opportunity.

In one or two states, however, this condition is said to have been remedied by counties bordering on Indian reservations permitting the citizens in unorganized jurisdictions to cast their ballots in the adjoining counties.

More than 200,000 Indians had been made citizens before the passage of the new citizenship act and a large percentage of these are said to be placed in the similar position of not being able to vote solely because the facilities enabling them to exercise this right are not available.

ABBOTTSTOWN

Abbottstown.—Miss Esther Forry is confined to bed suffering from bilious fever.

Jacob, young son of Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Craumer, is confined to the house by illness.

At a meeting of the borough council last week the sum of $50 of the borough funds was donated to the Fire Company for chemicals and equipment. Every member of the council enrolled and paid their fees as members of the Fire Company.

Abbottstown Fire Company, No. 1, will hold a festival on Diehl's Acre, Wednesday evening. A cordial invitation is extended to all to attend and help the organization procure adequate equipment to which purpose the proceeds will be applied.

Rev. and Mrs. Paul Gladfelter and daughter, Marguerite, visited Mrs. Lewis S. Wolf at the York Hospital and report her condition very much improved.

Miss Janet Miller is spending two weeks with her uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. P. K. Cleaver, at Dundalk, Maryland.

Floyd E. Wolf, Harrisburg, visited his father, J. J. Wolf, Sunday.

Hal Kindig, York, was the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Abraham Roth, Sunday.

The following were recent guests of Mr. and Mrs. Paul T. Winand and Mr. and Mrs. Clayton Lehigh, Chester Meashy, sons, Vernon, Irvin and Harold, and daughter, Edna, of Harrisburg; Mr. and Mrs. Norman Moul, sons, Harlan and Clayton, and John Lehigh, of near town.

Mr. and Mrs. Paul Alwine and daughter, Virginia, and Mrs. Hershey, Harrisburg, and Miss Annie Potteiger, Baltimore, were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Emory S. Alwine and family, on Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles H. Slocumb, of Greenfield, Massachusetts, were local visitors Sunday. Mr. Slocumb is postmaster of Greenfield.

Miss Frances Hollinger left Monday to visit her brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Myers, and family, at Bristol, Tennessee.

Mrs. Amanda Menges spent the week-end with friends in Hanover and Spring Grove.

Miss Lillie Moul, Hanover, visited her father, George Moul, and family, near Maple Grove, Sunday.

WOMEN SEEK TO PULL OUT VOTE

The vote in the November election cannot be increased without first increasing registration of voters, says the Pennsylvania League of Women Voters, a non-partisan organization, one of the chief aims of which is to increase the number of persons availing themselves of their suffrage.

The Pennsylvania League of Women Voters is engaged at present in staging a "Get-out-the-vote" campaign throughout the State and is impressing upon men and women alike the great need for them to register and declare their politics on September 2 and 3 when assessors in Gettysburg and Adams county will sit at various polling places for that purpose.

"He's thirty—or more, and every woman he knows is in love with him," said Ellen to herself, settling down in the train. "It's been wonderful—it's been heavenly, and I'll never see him again!"

CHAPTER IV

Aunt Elsie and Joe and even the old captain listened to Ellen's tired and excited recital that night; the woman exclaiming over descriptions of meals and clothes, the old man and the young anxious to grasp exactly what happened to the car, and Ellen sat up after the others had gone to bed and wrote a pretty note of thanks to Mrs. Rose. She said that she and Mr. Josselyn had had a "spill in the snow," but that fortunately no harm was done; it had been a lovely run.

After the letter was gone she sat reflecting; could she with any propriety write Gibbs? She knew she could not. She knew that he would read her motive in doing so as clearly as if she wrote the words: "I like you. I'm not married, and you're not married. I don't want to let you go."

She gave up the idea, and put her letter to Mrs. Rose by the clock, to be mailed in the morning, and went to bed, twisting and turning because the wrenched shoulder had begun to ache, but finally falling into deep, exhausted sleep between the cold sheets, too tired to dream.

Joe mailed the letter the next morning, and stopped at the drug store on the way back, for Ellen could not twist her sore shoulder into her dress, and came downstairs in her wrapper.

Her aunt and the captain prophesied that it would get better immediately, and a day or two went by, Ellen lay patiently through the long day-time hours, and wept with pain in the night.

Mrs. Baldwin persisted that it was either a cold in the shoulder, or a "wrench," or "the stiffneck." But she sent Joe for the doctor after breakfast, and Ellen felt better when she knew Joe had gone. Her aunt aired the dining room, anticipating the call, and had everything in order long before nine. But it was almost noon when the busy doctor came in.

That was the beginning, Ellen, who had never been in a doctor's hands before, smiled up at him uncomfortably as his skilled fingers pressed and explored. She made a rueful face when she heard her fate. She must lie absolutely still for an unspecified number of days, perhaps a week. Mrs. Bradley afterward told some intimates that she mistrusted Ellen was in for a bad spell when Doctor Older, who was fresh from the city hospital himself, said that he was going to see an old doctor in the city who was a spine authority in a day or two and discuss Ellen's case with him.

The preliminaries of a long illness are almost always wretched for the patient. Ellen was suffering acutely, she was mystified and shocked, and she was heart sick at the hideous possibility she suspected under the young doctor's frankly troubled manner. Joe came in to see her for a few minutes twice a day, her grandfather once, her aunt kept the room clean, and brought her trays she could hardly touch. Fevered, restless, dazed with lack of sleep and with the effect of the medicine that controlled the worst of the pain, she would stare at them dully.

Gradually she reached the second stage, and, if hope died within her then, as to the future, at least she found the present more bearable. Not as a whole, for her soul shrank from the horror of the thought that she might never walk free and young through the garden, and into Main street again.

A few days before Christmas the New York specialist came down, and was friendly and informal to a degree that enchanted Aunt Elsie. He could say little more than Doctor Older. Miss Lathimer had done something mysteriously harmful to one of the delicate vertebrae at the very base of the brain. It was an unusual case. The girl quivered into the invalid's invariable question.

"Doctor—do you think—can you give us any idea—it can be cured, can't it?"

"Almost anything can be cured, Doctor Older tells me that you want to be an artist," said the specialist for answer. "Now, there's nothing to prevent you from going right on with your work here. Get out your pencils, and don't bother your head about your back! You're not having so much pain, now—"

"Not unless I move," Ellen faltered, feeling the tears of bitter disappointment press behind her eyes.

Doctor Older immediately began to discuss a sort of harness he was having made for the neck, and when the city man had highly approved this experiment, the two went away. Only Ellen knew the bitter desolation they left behind them; and the long hours in the night she lay sobbing over what in her dark hour she thought the death of hope.

The harness gave her blessed relief, although its ugly brownness, pressing up against her white face, was a hurt to her girlish pride. And on Christmas day, with Joe's help, the doctor moved her down to the dining room, where a wide couch had been placed for her.

After that she came downstairs every day, and Aunt Elsie and Joe helped her tenderly upstairs every night. And there were hours, whole days sometimes between the moods of revolt and resentment, when she found a new, odd flavor of joy in her life.

Almost every hour something took her thoughts to Gibbs Josselyn and the adventurous day that had been her last day free from pain. At first it had seemed that he must know, that he had a right to know, what the accident had cost her. She longed—ah, how she longed, for his splendid concern and sympathy. There were whole hours when she lay and dreamed of it, his shock, his horror, his visits, and his flowers.

Sometimes the wording of the letter she knew she would not write flitted through her mind. "Dear Mr. Josselyn—I know you will be sorry—something that seems to puzzle the doctors—the pleasant land of counterpane—"

But she did not write. Pride kept her silent. She would not send him the three lines that must buy his friendship. If that was to come to her, it would come. She dared not beg for it.

And honest as she was to the core, Ellen knew that her motive in keeping silent was not quite unselfish. The note might bring him straight to her, it was true. But suppose he did not in the least realize that her life had been crushed and altered in the one brief moment of terror and shock they had laughed over and so quickly forgotten? Suppose he said to himself that he was sorry, and it was a pity and nothing more? Then she would lose not only the future, but the bright and precious memory of the past.

Again, he might respond to the little appeal with all the generous ardor that she knew was in him, waiting to be stirred. He might come straight down to the house in Main street—

To find Aunt Elsie, opening the door, suspicious of his errand, and find the dining room overheated and unalred, and find Joe's boots oiled and drying by the airtight stove, and adding their odor to the other odors—

And to find Ellen, his rosy companion of the furs and the laughter, a small white-faced thing under a patchwork quilt, with brown leather straps under her chin—

Reaching this point in her thoughts, Ellen would give a little shudder. Better that she should never know. Better that she had never crossed his path, or he hers. But for that memorable week-end she might be going to the Yacht club dance with Willa, Bobby Carnival, and the Henshaws tonight, she might be in the Mardi Gras Kermess that was to convulse and enchant the village next week. And summer was coming, a summer without driving and tennis and swimming for Ellen.

Philadelphia.—There was plenty of baseball at Shibe Park Tuesday afternoon. The Tigers played the most and stung the Mackmen with an 11 to 9 defeat in their last appearance of the series.

In the first place there were plenty of pitchers, seven in all. Three of them labored for T. Cobb and four for C. Mack.

Then there were great bunches of runs as indicated by the score and a flood of basehits. In baseknocking the Junglers nosed out the Macks 15 to 14.

New York.—The New York Yankees made it four out of five from St. Louis here yesterday, winning the last game of the series by a score of 5 to 4.

The game was held up for fifteen minutes in the eighth inning by a protracted argument. With Dugan on third, Ruth on first and none out, Meusel hit a low liner to left, which Bennett scooped in on a low bound. Dugan scored and Ruth reached third.

The St. Louis club claimed that Bennett caught the ball and Ruth was doubled off first. This claim was sustained by Evans, who ruled both Meusel and Ruth out.

New York then took the protest back to Owens, the base umpire, who stuck to his original decision, that the ball had not been caught, and Meusel and Ruth were returned to the bases. St. Louis refused to take the field for seven more minutes. The decision cost St. Louis the game, as Ruth scored the winning run after play was resumed.

Williams, of St. Louis, turned his right ankle, and gave way to Bennett.

St. Louis.—The Brooklyn Robins hammered Allan Sothoron and Herman Bell from the start and the visitors defeated the Cardinals yesterday, 7 to 4, in the final game of the series.

Rogers Hornsby, Cardinal second baseman, increased his season home-run string to eleven by slugging out circuit drives in the sixth and eighth innings. No one was on either time.

Cincinnati.—Carl Mays' pitching allowed Cincinnati to make it two out of three from Boston, shutting out the Braves for the second consecutive time and winning the last game of the series yesterday, 7 to 0.

Lucas was knocked out of the box in the fifth inning and Cooney also was hit freely.

Pittsburgh.—Whitney Glazner was handled roughly by his former teammates in the first inning Tuesday afternoon and as a result Pittsburgh

HINKEY HAINES TO QUIT BASEBALL

Hinkey Haines, former Gettysburg backfield coach, and well known here for his athletic prowess, has decided to quit baseball. The following from the Pittsburgh Press relates Haines story:

"Hinkey Haines, the outfielder, sent to Louisville by the Yankees, has decided to quit the game. In making known his decision to the Louisville management the player said he would not leave the team until Ballenger, who has been out of commission, is able to resume play. Haines' father conducts a cigar manufacturing business in Red Lion, Pa., and the player says he has been offered a proposition by his dad which means more to him than baseball."

PLANK PLACED IN CLASS WITH STARS

Sporting Writer Of Pittsburgh Paper Classifies Hurlers In Degree Of Various Importance.

Ralph Davis, Columnist for the Pittsburgh Press in a recent article on the big league hurlers, classifies the various moundmen in degrees of importance. Listed among the first eight is Eddie Plank, Gettysburg, formerly with the Philadelphia Athletics. Davis has this to say:

"Ball players admit that Christy Mathewson was the king pitcher of all time. He is the standard of every pitcher, the pitchers' pitcher."

"Go through the lifetime averages of pitchers and take the first 20. Placing them in order you have Christy Mathewson, Joe McGinnity, Grover Cleveland Alexander, Walter Johnson, Jack Chesbro, Denton (Cy) Young, Rube Waddell, Eddie Plank, Wilbur Cooper, Mordecai (Three-scored a 3 to 1 victory over the Phillies, giving them three out of four in the series.

Boston.—Chicago cleaned up the three-game series with Boston by winning Tuesday, 8 to 6. Fuhr was hit hard, as was Leverett, but the fierce hitting of Mostil and Eddie Collins helped to make up the winning margin for the visitors.

Chicago.—Hard hitting and the wildness of Keen in the seventh inning gave the New York Giants a 9-to-4 win in the final game with Chicago Tuesday afternoon.

Washington.—Walter Johnson held Cleveland to five hits yesterday and Washington scored its fourth straight win of the five-game series, 4 to 2.

Fingered) Brown, George Herman (Babe) Ruth, George Mullin, Addie Joss, Stanley Coveleskie, Jim Vaughn, Vic Willis, Ed Walsh, Jeff Overall, Joe Wood and Urban Shocker. Mathewson leads the group with a lifetime average of .695. In 13 years of pitching he won 335 games and lost 147.

"Taking record after record and arranging the pitchers accordingly, these four become the first group: Mathewson, Alexander, Johnson and Plank. Mathewson and Plank have finished their pitching careers. Johnson and Alexander are still working. "Batsmen have been able to hit only .222 against Mathewson and Alexander. They have averaged .224 against Johnson and the average against Plank is .230.

"Mathewson leads in control. He allowed a combination of 46 bases on balls, hit batsmen and wild pitches for every 1,000 batters that faced him during his career. Alexander permitted 50 per 1,000, Johnson 72 and Plank 73. This gives Mathewson a wide margin in control.

"Johnson has the lead in average number of strikeouts per 1,000 batters. His average is 161. Mathewson's is 133, Alexander's 123 and Plank's 122.

"The average number of runs per game (earned and unearned) off the leading four: Mathewson 2.58, Johnson 2.71, Plank 2.89 and Alexander 2.94.

"During 12 of his 13 seasons Mathewson won more than 20 games. Johnson had this record in 10 seasons, Alexander in eight and Plank in seven.

"The largest number of games Mathewson won in a single season was 37. Johnson captured 36 in one year, Alexander 33, and the largest number that Plank won in a single season was 26.

"Mathewson had the highest average of innings per season with 327. Alexander is one inning behind him. Johnson has 294 and Plank 261.

"Picking an average for their best five years produces this result: Mathewson 31.6, Alexander 29.8, Johnson 29.6. For this period their winning averages were Mathewson .695, Alexander .655, Plank .637, Johnson .592.

"So, on figures Mathewson appears to have been the best pitcher of the last two decades."

000, and approximately $13,000 for the building of a new street in McSherrystown will bring the total bonded indebtedness to slightly more than $300,000, which is the limit under the board's present borrowing capacity.

Need More Money
If additional bridges are to be built, if roads are to be improved, if the commissioners are to be called upon for donations to county projects of one kind or another, it is a foregone conclusion that additional funds will be required, persons close to the board explain.

One of the reasons advanced for the near deficit which the board of commissioners faces is the fact that the assessed valuation of taxable property in the county on which its borrowing capacity is fixed fell from $16,088,895 in 1923 to $15,159,218, cutting down the commissioners' borrowing capacity approximately $20,000.

In view of these facts it is thought likely that a definite declaration of what they plan to do in the matter of securing additional funds with which to run Adams county will be forthcoming from the commissioners shortly.

NEWSPAPERS COME AND GO

Rumor has it that one weekly newspaper in Adams county is about to pass out of existence to permit its publisher to take advantage of a better daily proposition elsewhere, and that a new weekly newspaper is being fostered and will soon make its initial appearance in Gettysburg. We will mourn the passing of the old, as we mourn the passing of an old friend; we will welcome the appearance of the new as an addition to the family of Adams county newspapers.

A newspaper thrives and prospers as its management senses the need for it and cultivates the people as a whole or the particular class to which it caters. Like most other lines of endeavor, the newspaper has undergone a radical change and a publisher of the old school has little chance of conducting a newspaper today along the same lines it was run a decade ago. Overhead expenses have increased tremendously within the past ten years and the newspaperman, who thinks he can put out a crackjack publication today with a can of ink, a pair of scissors and a proof press, with a motley crowd of political friends as his chief followers, soon discovers his mistake.

Local and foreign advertisers today are giving more careful thought and consideration to advertising than ever before. Larger mercantile organizations maintain technical staffs to follow-up the results from newspaper advertising. The government has also thrown a safeguard around advertisers by prosecuting publishers who make false claims as to their circulation in the sworn statements required every six months by the postoffice department.

The support of advertisers is absolutely essential to the success of any newspaper. Confidence of the reading public is obtained through the news-editorial columns and with that confidence a bona fide circulation list naturally follows.

There is no substitute for paid-in-advance circulation and without it no newspaper can succeed. It cannot be obtained from the registration books.

THE LARGE FAMILY

Brothers and sisters and cousins and aunts, uncles and grandfolds, too, when the family is large you have children of this one and children of that, all of the blood of you; This is the family—yours and mine—and bigger it yearly grows; Oh, the pleasures come fast when the family's large, and so do the cares and woes!

When the family's small you may run the years with seldom a touch of grief, Two or three lambs you may keep in fold away from the wolf or thief; But with many to love and with many to guard there are some that will go astray, And over and over your tears shall fall when the Shepherd calls one away.

They bring you their joys with their smiling eyes, they lavish their love on you, When the family's large you have much they miss who cherish but one or two, But your faith must wear to the circle's rim for many a blow shall fall, For as often come joys to the larger throng, so often shall sorrow call.

There is always a care when the family's large, there is ever a pressing need For the strength you have and the faith you hold, and often your heart will bleed, But this is the price you must pay for all the love that has come to you— You must braver be, for you'll suffer more than the smaller families do.

Taking the Nation by Storm—

One-Shot Lubrication System

WHEN you come in to see the 1925 Cleveland Six—you are going to find something real to look at!

A totally new car, of course. Longer, stronger, handsomer, and more powerful—a beauty in every sense of the word!

But that isn't all. You are going to see the biggest convenience feature ever offered the motorist—a patented lubrication system that does away with the greasy, grimy task of oiling and greasing the car by hand!

Takes 2 Seconds

You will never know what convenience means until you see the One-Shot Lubrication System. Think of driving a car on which you never use a grease gun or oil can—on which squeaks and rattles and prematurely worn parts are literally unknown.

A plunger projects through the floor board. When you step on it, 23 vital parts of the car are lubricated simultaneously.

No wonder the 1925 Cleveland Six is taking the nation by storm! It's the easiest car in the world to take care of—and, in addition, it Widowhood often changes a woman's nerves to "nerve." When a man loves his work he always does it exceedingly well.

Nothing can live long on yesterday's fame. Keep up your advertising.

Industry has no greater depressing influence than the pastime of fishing.

A writer who really says something has a hard time finding a publisher to print it.

When a man gets stung it is usually at a time when he is trying to sting some one else.

Hez Heck says: "Human nature ain't never satisfied with a good thing. It monkeys around until it gets something worse."

ADVERTISING IS MEANS OF RAISING LIVING STANDARD

Advertising Representatives From Over World Hear Experts Give Opinion On Advertising.

London, July 16.—James D. Moon, vice president and director of General Motors Corporation in charge of Export Companies, told the convention of Associated Advertising Clubs of the World today that rebuilding of industrial and commercial structures awaited leaders who would provide for workers sound economic programs that would hasten the day all had expected with peace.

"The tools are available and the laborer is ready to work," he said. "The need is for leaders, organizers with mental and moral courage who will place the tools in the hands of the laborer, finance the laborer to the extent of providing him with tools and materials, and finance the exchange of the laborer's products. This leadership must come out of the ranks of such men as are represented here at this convention. The present day is the day of the industrial and commercial leader."

Important Factor
Mr. Moon asserted advertising must be counted on to play a great part in reconstruction and rehabilitation, because it could be made so important a factor in distribution.

"The world today is standing in great need of having its distribution systems re-created and re-vivified," he said. "The production facilities, although somewhat impaired by the great stresses imposed upon them during the war, stand generally ready; men are eager to work. However, markets are needed for the products; means of facilitating their exchange are needed. The old channels of distribution through which goods flowed prior to the war are gradually being re-established and new channels, made necessary by new political conditions, are being constructed. Advertising, can very effectively increase the rate of growth of these national and international distributive systems."

Mr. Moon characterized the convention as a symbol of cooperation, an expression of the eagerness of the peoples of the world to work together.

Understanding
"Out of understanding and co-operation between nations, between political and commercial leaders and between capital and labor, will evolve the program of rehabilitation for which people are hungering," he declared.

Economic forces must be allowed free play, he said, natural economic laws must be respected and no impediments should be placed in the way of their working out freely.

"The nation prospers best," he added, "that takes advantage of these laws rather than resists them. Prejudices very often obscure economic imagination and prevent accurate economic appraisal."

Alluding to the development of the motor car in the last 20 years as an important factor in economic and cultural progress, he said it had proved that what it added annually to the wealth of a nation was greater than its annual cost.

Raising Standards
"Advertising has played a corresponding part in raising standards of living," he said. "It makes people want things. When they want things they go to work to get the money to pay for them."

Mr. Moon urged the delegates to go forth with the ideal of helping to increase the comfort and happiness of millions of families.

"Let us dramatize the worker," he added. "Let us create an atmosphere about him and about the leader-worker that will insure them social advantage. Let us take such interest and such part in governmental and political affairs as will insure economic stability and progress."

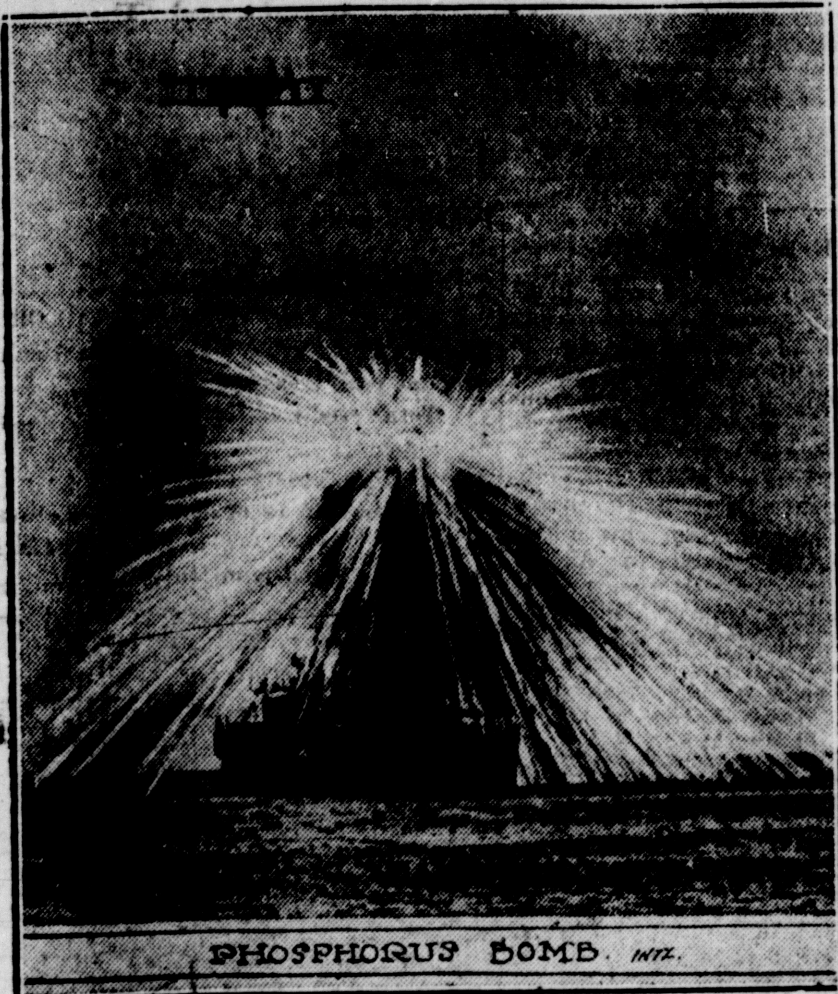

Forged Letters From Royalty Are Used By Noted Woman Swindler

Karlsruhe, July 16.—Alleged letters from ex-Kaiser William, the ex-Crown Prince and ex-Crown Princess, General Hindenburg, the ex-King of Saxony, the Pope and scores of other prominent persons figured in the prosecution of the wife of a musician at the Baden State Opera, who was sentenced to a year and a half in prison for swindling operations. Four hundred letters which the woman declared were from General Hindenburg were exhibited.

All the letters were illiterate and framed in such strange language that they created much amusement in the court room. The woman pretended to acquaintance with nearly all the celebrities in Germany and solicited gifts for fictitious charities in which they were said to be interested, promising that she would supply autographed letters in acknowledgment of the contributions. She supplied the letters, but an examination of them in court convinced the judge that she had manufactured them all herself, and kept the contributions for her own use.

There are many in the world purchasing with words.

SECRET TESTS WITH PHOSPHOROUS BOMBS.

This picture, made months ago, has been kept as a closely guarded secret by the U. S. Army Air Service, and has just been released for publication. When the army airmen bombed old ships that were scrapped under the disarmament treaty they used a new and deadly form of bomb—a 1,000 pound missile loaded with phosphorous, with its devastating effects. Nothing could be more illuminating as a test on the value of the airplane during war than this picture, showing a direct hit on the fire control platform of the old battleship. No one could have lived aboard the vessel.

German Farmer Quits Crops To Raise Fish

Ludwigslust, Germany, July 16.—The crops of E. Ziemsen, an extensive land owner near here, did not pay very well last year, so Ziemsen flooded the fields in the fall and this year has been raising fish and doing so well financially that he is planning to extend his home made lakes.

Ziemsen has about 1,000 lowland acres under water. German carp have done particularly well in the flooded fields, and this year Ziemsen expects to gather about 80 tons of fish.

On some of the higher ground of his estate Ziemsen has a large tract devoted to the raising of the blue fox.

United States Seeks Island in Philippines

Mamila, July 16.—The United States government has entered into negotiations with the Netherlands government to bring under the American flag Palmas Island, situated about 50 miles southeast of the province of Davao, Island of Mindanao.

Palmas Island was ceded to the United States by Spain in the treaty of Paris in 1898, but the Dutch flag which has flown over it for nearly a century has never been taken down. Although the people of Palmas are virtually all of Filipino origin and the island a part of the Philippine archipelago, the Dutch have assumed sovereignty over the 500 inhabitants.

Finish everything in one day

Try this easier method

A BASKET FULL of clothes to wash and dry and iron—can it be done in one day, with time still left for rest and recreation?

Try Chipso. At the very start you'll notice that your clothes get themselves much sooner on the line.

Chipso saves time in many ways. Chipso solves the washday time problem—not by changing the method, but by cutting down the work. Its flaked form eliminates chipping, shaving or melting of old-fashioned soap. Its instant suds and remarkable safe clearing ability wash clothes clean, without long, hard rubbing. In the rinse the suds simply vanish. Boiling is required less frequently—if at all.

Chipso's speed is matched only by Chipso's safety for colors and fabrics. We have thoroughly tested this sensational product and recommend that you try it. The boxes are large and surprisingly economical.

PROCTER & GAMBLE

Makers of Ivory Soap and Ivory Flakes

Whatever way you wash, Chipso makes it easier

Easier for soaking—Chipso's instant suds loosens every atom of dirt. The less soiled clothes can be soaked, rinsed and hung right out.

Easier for boiling—if you like to boil your clothes—about once a month is ample—with Chipso.

Easier for rinsing—Chipso dissolves completely. Its wonderful suds rinse out quickly and thoroughly—no soap particles remain. Leaves clothes snowy white, spotless and sweet-smelling.

Easier for washing machines—no chipping, no shaving, or melting of cake-soap. Suds in no time. Chipso won't cake up the mechanism.

Easier for dishwashing—and for household cleaning—instant suds—loosens dirt, cuts grease, works like magic.

JAMES FRENCH DORRANCE

A stirring story of the bad lands of Arizona and Mexico

"Flame" Burton owner of the Broken Arrow Ranch.

You will thrill at the magnificent fight which this delightful girl puts up to save her cattle ranch from those who would trick her out of it.

Start it now.

IN A LONESOME customs shanty on the Ariz-Mex border, Theo Talcott rattled a sheet of official paper from a one lunged typewriter, and stared at the result of his pounding. "There, Uncle Samuel! I reckon you'll savvy my deep regret at leaving your employ and bear me no hard feelings."

He spoke in conversational tones, exactly as though the angular old gentleman in star spangled suit had been sitting opposite him, instead of enthroned in the hearts of his subjects on a dais at Washington.

As he signed the epistle, under scoring the name with a black line of his determination, the frown that had lowered his dark brows lifted. From about the orbits of his eyes the premature quint lines, so often found even in young Arizonians, were erased temporarily. He was fully convinced that his resignation as deputy collector and inspector of customs at Pajarito, Arizona, U. S. A., was a work of art.

Seasons for quitting the service were many and had been thrashed out with himself too many times to need any mental review. Every high strong nerve in his powerful body was "up and rattin' to go."

His wonder was how long a time would be needed to re-tape him out of the service, the inactivity of which made him a square peg in a round hole.

Enveloping and sealing the resignation, that it might be ready for the first rider, postoffice bound, to pass the lonely station, Talcott went out into the shade of a thatched porch. Strongly was he tempted to shoot the glad tidings of decision to the bare hills of Mexico, the road led away to the south from the imaginary line he was guarding. He actually might have perpetrated some broadcasting tiff with had he not chanced first to glance the other way, over dusty acres of his native state.

A horseman was bearing down upon the station. Considering the 112 degrees reading of the shaded thermometer hanging upon the front wall of the shack, the speed of the rider was significant.

Compact and medium describes the figure which Talcott presented as he studied the advance. His pongee shirt was open at the neck, a concession to heat and solitude, the trousers of his cowboy uniform were tucked into cowboy boots, the sort with underfoot heels that keep the foot from slipping through the stirrups. His unbelieved waist was lean—that of a man well conditioned physically. Even the sun cured hand, with which he shaded his gray eyes against the afternoon glare, bespoke strength and purpose.

Easier for dishwashing—and for household cleaning—instant suds—loosens dirt, cuts grease, works like magic.

herself commanded all his faculties and taxed his admiration beyond all ordinary limits.

"Are you the customs man?" Her first question had him stammering with everything but his eyes. "T. Talcott, deputy collector," he managed to enunciate after an appreciative moment. "Very much," which is to say utterly at your service—miss or madam.

If the young woman, started ever so slightly at the mention of his name, the young official was in no condition to notice the movement. She might have drawn a bead on him with the blue-black automatic that showed in her sash without his making even a try for his own hip hardware.

"I'm Ruth Burton—miss. I own the Broken Arrow ranch up Hualquiver way. Have you any passports to spare today?" To any man, Miss Burton must have looked far from unattractive; to the starved eyes of the lonely boundary guard she appeared a vision of beauty that caused him to doubt the verity of his senses.

She was blonde—beautifully and naturally blonde from the bronze crown that showed beneath her flappy Panama to the pale tips of the long fingers which she had just released from gauntlets. She carried a figure liberally apportioned, but not lacking in lines that denominated her as a woman.

"Was it a drink of water you asked for?" Talcott recovered after a moment. Without waiting to be corrected, he rushed into the customs shack and returned with a glass and earthen jar. "I'm afraid you'll find this lukewarm, but my lee machine—"

He broke off because she was laughing at him.

"Come down to earth, T. T.," she commanded, snapping her long white fingers. As a memorial commands a trance to end. "I cut the dust with water from my own canteen just now, and I'm not even lukewarm."

"T. T.," he repeated. "You—know me?"

"The moment I laid eyes on you," she declared. "In all the years you haven't changed, even for the worse—except that it's perfectly plain you've forgotten Flame Burton."

Mention of her sobriquet brushed the film from his eyes—look him back to the University of Arizona campus at Tucson and the brightest freshman class of his senior experience. He made no attempt to apologize for memory's fault, but at once began a college reunion.

"Whatever brought you to Pajarito today?" he asked, after a considerable interval devoted to "don't-you-remember."

"I told you that when I first came—asked if you had any passports for sale?"

"You're not—not headed into Mexico?" he cried, springing to his feet, joy fleeing his expression to give place to concern. "Not alone, Flame?"

The girl gestured him back into his chair with a gesture. "Not alone and not today. But I must be ready to go at a moment's notice."

Automobiles Seem Cheap When Bought On This Basis

Winston-Salem, N. C.—Automobiles are being sold here by the pound. An enterprising dealer who handles a low-priced car, now advertises his wares at 33 1/3 cents a pound. His advertisements set forth the weight of the cars together with the total price at so much a pound, and compares the price with that per pound of everyday necessities of life.

It is said the unique method of advertising has proved unusually successful.

REPAIR LINCOLN CATHEDRAL

London.—The Dean of Lincoln has just returned home from America where, for the second time in two years, he went successfully for dollars to add to the Lincoln Cathedral Repair Fund.

Last year the Dean collected about $30,000 in the United States. This year he got $15,000 more, most of it along the eastern seaboard. The cathedral at Lincoln is one of the standard sights for tourists in England.

Loot Found On Irish Farms

Dublin.—The Free State civic guards have raided a number of farmhouses in county Longford and discovered in them many articles of antique silverware bearing the crest of the Mackey-Wilson family. They were looted from Currygrane which was destroyed by fire. This was the home of Field Marshal Sir Henry Wilson, the British army chief of staff in the European war, who was assassinated on his door step in London.

TOP NOTCHERS

Arendtsville, along with McSherrystown, is leading the Adams County Baseball League. Until Saturday, when a temporary set back by the narrow margin of one run put the St. Mary's aggregation neck and neck with Arendtsville, Bob Hoffman's stellar crew held the top position all alone. Next Saturday, when Arendtsville meets McSherrystown on the former's home grounds, Arendtsville is going back into a class all by itself—that is a foregone conclusion with Arendtsville fans.

It's a real distinction for Arendtsville to be leading the League in view of the fact that it is the smallest town in the League. But to the per capita population and the square inch of territory, there is more real baseball enthusiasm in Arendtsville than in any other town in the country, New York not excepted.

Arendtsville business people and citizens as a whole are back of Arendtsville's team one hundred per cent. Those whose names don't appear on this page are there in spirit, for not all could be seen by the solicitors before this page of advertising was assembled.

HEIR TO CHINESE
THRONE IS FREE

Youthful Hsuan Tung Ventures
Outside Of Peking For First
Time During Last 12 Years.

Peking, July 16.—For the first time since he became a virtual prisoner within the walls of the Forbidden City 12 years ago, when he was forced to abdicate the throne of China, the youthful Hsuan Tung has been permitted to venture outside of Peking. He recently motored to the historic Summer Palace, relic of the folly of the erstwhile empress dowager and the scene of many extravagant court functions marking the days immediately preceding the downfall of the Manchus.

With his bride of something more than a year, the heir apparent spent hours wandering among the ruins, crossed the miniature lake upon which the palace faces, and returned to Peking by way of the Jade Fountain, another familiar outlying place of interest to foreigners in China and upon which the young monarch gazed for the first time.

Summer Palace

The Summer Palace, which but for the revolutionary outbreak of 1911 and the establishment of the republic, might today have been Hsuan Tung's summer residence, was built by the empress dowager with funds diverted from the purpose for which they were designated, the building of a navy. Fifteen million taels, representing at that time approximately $10,000,000 gold, were squandered there. As though in a spirit of derision, one of the features of the palace is a representation of a small pleasure craft, built of marble and with its foundations set securely in the water on the edge of the small lake, to serve as a tea-house.

Hsuan Tung was accompanied on his outing by various members of the

Stephen Keefe, Mortgagee $600.00
vs. Recorded Mort-
Mary E. Kohler, gage Book "L," et al. page 500 in Recorder's Office at Gettysburg, Pa.

To Rev. Henry Keefe, of Frederick, Maryland, John B. Keefe, Esq., of Hagerstown Maryland, and to all other heirs-at-law, of Stephen Keefe, deceased, and other parties interested:—

Please take notice that Alexander Kinneman and Clara A. Hemler, of Hanover, Pa., have presented their petition to the Court of Common Pleas of Adams county, Pa., setting forth that on March 30, 1895, the said mortgage of $600, covering a certain tract of land in Hamilton township, Adams county, Pa., containing fourteen (14) acres, more or less, with improvements thereon, was fully paid to the said Stephen Keefe (now deceased), and that the said Stephen Keefe then and there agreed with the petitioners that he would enter satisfaction of said mortgage on the records at Gettysburg, Pa.; that the said Stephen Keefe failed and neglected to enter satisfaction of said mortgage as aforesaid, and the said mortgage, although fully paid as aforesaid, remains unsatisfied of record and a cloud of title exists upon said real estate;

Whereupon, the said Court issued a citation upon you to show cause, if any, why said encumbrance, charged as aforesaid, on said real estate, should not be satisfied, extinguished and discharged and all actions thereon be forever hereafter barred; returnable the 23rd day of August, 1924, at 10:30 a. m.

You are therefore notified that unless you show cause why said mortgage should not be satisfied on or before the return day of said rule, a decree will be entered as prayed for.

How to build up your Weight

To be under weight often proves low fighting-power in the body. It often means you are minus nerve-power, minus red-cells in your blood, minus health, minus vitality.

It is serious to be minus, but the moment you increase the number of your red-blood-cells, you begin to become plus. That's why S.S.S., since 1826, has meant to thousands of underweight men and women, a plus in their strength. Your body fills to the point of power, your flesh becomes firmer, the age lines that come from thinness disappear. You look younger, firmer, happier, and you feel it, too, all over your body. More red-blood-cells! S.S.S. will build them.

S.S.S. is sold at all good drug stores in two sizes. The larger size is more economical.

Tennessee Figures Show Mob Justice In South Decreases

Nashville, Tenn., July 16.—That lynching is gradually being overcome in the South is indicated by a steady reduction in such crimes in Tennessee during the last few years, according to a report on this subject made by James D. Burton, secretary for the Commission on Inter-Racial Cooperation.

Mob justice is shown to be on the decline both as to the number of victims and the area in which such crimes occur, the report sets forth. For a period of 23 years, from 1900 to 1923, 73 lynchings have been reported in Tennessee. Twelve counties had two-thirds of this total, 24 others had one each, and 60 counties had none, says the report.

Tennessee had five lynchings during the last five years, the report added, two in 1922, and none last year.

NEW OATH FOR IRISH OFFICERS

Did You Ever Notice the Cars in Front of Lestz's?

The folks who drive their own cars also drive the hardest bargains.

They are well fixed because they know when they are well off when it comes to spending money.

In one day last week, 9 different men carried 9 Lestz suits to 9 different cars waiting outside at the curb—and every man in the lot could have conscientiously slipped a five dollar bill under the hood of his motor as a tip for carrying him to a place where his dollars carried the greatest respect.

Super-Values in Cool suits here today—
